THE PUNCTUAL MAN.

In view of the marvelous fact
That life's but a delicate span;
Mr. Brown displays wonderful tact
For being a punctual man.

'Tis said, with no meaning of mirth,
That he uttered in accents sublime—
As soon as he came upon earth—
The astonishing syllable, "Time!"

Let us not on this episode frown;
He had cause for the juvenile croon;
Unlike Richard of royal renown,
Who entered the world rather soon.

While a youth, although prompt as the best,
No slur on his morals was cast
By those who are quick to invest
Young men with the title of "fast."

When in love, the same rule he observed
That at school he had followed so well,
And nothing external e'er swerved
His thoughts from the voice of the belle.

In popping the question he fled
Not the least from his regular line;
Answer quickly, my dearest, he said,
I've another engagement at nine.

Now comforts fall amply and thick
On his life—a melodious chime—
And though shunning transactions "on tick,"
He delights to do business "on time."

Yet in pleasure one pang ever darts,
And drags his hilarity down,
To think, when from life he departs,
They'll call him "the late Mr. Brown."

THE VAGABOND SAGE.—An old man, of very active physiognomy, answering to the name of Jacob Wilmot, was brought before the police court. His clothes looked as if they might have been bought second-hand in his youthful prime, for they had suffered more from the rubs of the world, than the proprietor himself.

"What business?"

"None; I'm a traveler."

"A vagabond, perhaps?"

"You are not wrong. Travelers and vagabonds are about the same thing. The difference is that the latter travels without money, the former without brains."

"Where have you travelled?"

"All over the continent."

"For what purpose?"

"Observation."

"What have you observed?"

"A little to commend, much to censure, and a great deal to laugh at."

"Humph! what do you commend?"

"A handsome woman who will stay at home; an eloquent preacher that will preach short sermons; a good writer that will not write too much; and a fool that has sense enough to hold his tongue."

"What do you censure?"

"A man that marries a girl for her fine clothing; a youth who studies medicine or law while he has the use of his hands; and the people who will elect a drunkard to office."

"What do you laugh at?"

"I laugh at a man who expects his position to command that respect which his personal qualifications and qualities do not merit."

He was dismissed.

ALL THEY SAID.—Some mean fellow has recently taken down the entire conversation between two ladies during a fashionable call and reports verbatim all that was said, as follows:—'How do you do, my dear?' 'Putty well, thank you.' [They kiss.] 'How have you been this age?' 'Putty well; how have you been?' 'Very well, thank you.' 'Pleasant to-day.' 'Yes, very bright, but we had a shower yesterday.' 'Are all your people well?' 'Quite well, thank you; how are yours?' 'Very well, I'm obliged to you.' 'Have you seen Mary B——— lately?' 'No, but I've seen Susan C———.' 'You don't say so! Is she well?' 'Very well, I believe.' [Rising.] 'Must you go?' 'Yes, indeed; I have seven calls to make.' 'Do call again soon.' 'Thank you; but you don't call on me once in an age.' 'Oh, you should not say so; I'm sure I'm very good.' 'Good-bye.'

"WHAR'S THE BARN?"—A rural lawyer, whom we shall designate as 'Squire Jovial, once had an important case in a country court, and the decision depended entirely on the way the jury would regard the testimony of one lady. He lost the case, because the fair witness swore positively to an occurrence which she witnessed at a distance of several rods, although there were several persons that stood much nearer than she that saw nothing whatever of it. The old 'Squire looked rather blue when the jury brought in their verdict, but revenged himself by rising and telling the court a story "of a lady he once knew," who was nearsighted, but always declared her eyesight to be excellent. Accordingly, one day a neighbor stuck a darning needle in the side of a barn, and placing her on the opposite side of the road asked her if she could see it. "O, yes," replied the old lady, "I can see the needle easy, but whar's the barn?"

THE WAY TO FIND A HUSBAND.—Girls, study more common sense and less wit.

More useful occupation and less music.

More study of the mysterics of the kitchen and less of the mysteries of Paris.

More mending of shirts and stockings and less making of bracelets.

Less display of toilets that appal the purses of candidates for wedlock.

More proof to men that they will find in a wife a helpmate, and not an embarrassment.

This recipe, if thoroughly tried, will greatly lessen the number of bachelors and increase happy homes.

NETTIE'S REPENTANCE.

BY JULIA M. DUNN.

"I will not, Norman!"

And Nellie Weld brought her little foot down upon the carpet with a force that shook all her bright golden hair from under its little lace morning cap, and sent it rolling in golden shimmering waves over her shoulders.

There was a light in her blue eyes which her husband had never before seen there, and the fresh red lips which had always greeted him with smiles were parted over the white teeth with an expression of unmistakable scorn.

"It is cruel and exacting of you, Norman, when you know how much, how very much, I like Mrs. May, and how fond she is of me. It is selfish to ask me to give up the society of my best friend, just to gratify a capricious whim of yours."

And Mrs. Weld burst into tears.

It was not in Norman Weld's nature to see a woman's tears, unmoved. It is scarcely that of any man, when the tears are those of his own wife, and that wife one so fondly loved and tenderly cherished as Nellie.

His habitually grave and quiet voice was full of troubled tenderness now, as he bent over her and said in tones of gentle remonstrance,

"Nellie!"

"Don't Norman," was the pettish answer, as she turned away from the caressing touch of his hand upon her soft golden hair. "I am not a child, to be tyrannized over one moment, and coaxed into good humor the next."

Selfish, cruel, tyrannical. It was too much.

Mr. Weld took his hat with that indescribable air which injured husbands know so well how to assume, and left the room.

With a slow step he passed down the stairs and the street.

Was it wrong, he asked himself, for him to win this bright young life to gladden his quiet home, and diffuse the sunshine of her buoyant spirits over his graver, maturer life? For though there was a difference of but ten years in their respective ages, many cares had made Norman Weld older at twenty-seven than most men at thirty-five. He thought of it now with something like contempt for himself. He might have known that he could never make her happy, he with a gravity of demeanor that was almost sternness, and she, with her joyous, loving disposition, for Nellie was gaid tempered and affectionate generally, in spite of her willfulness.

But he had not meant to be tyrannical. No, no! He loved his wife too well for that. Many fair women looked kindly upon the brilliant lawyer, the wealthy Mr. Weld. Queenly hands had dropped and fair cheeks flushed at his approach, but the childish Nellie, with her winning demonstrative ways, undisciplined and ungovernable as she was, had drawn him to her by a strange, sweet fascination, when more beautiful and more intellectual women had failed to make any impression upon his heart. And after all his efforts to make her happy, she had treated his first request with such unreasonable childish anger.

Something weightier than the great lawsuit of Hobart versus Long pressed upon the spirit of Mr. Weld as he walked slowly down the street that winter morning; and his copying clerk, Richards, to whom an honest lawyer was a paradox, and law a sublime mystery, thought, as he watched him from the office window, that some new legal stratagem must have taken possession of his brain to make him walk at that pace, when the thermometer stood twenty degrees below zero.

"Ma'am," said Kate, putting her head in at the door of Nellie's room, "Mrs. Lyon would like to see you directly if its entirely convenient.

"Very well, Kate."

And Nellie, after arranging her hair, and bathing her face, proceeded to her aunt's apartment.

"How do you feel this morning, auntie?"

"Very cheerful, very contented, my child," was the invalid's reply, as she looked up into the innocent, girlish face that bent over her couch. "I should be ungrateful indeed, if after all the affectionate care lavished upon me by my nephew and his wife, I should be otherwise."

Some shadows resting upon the usually happy face caught Mrs. Lyon's attention. She loved Nellie dearly, not less for her loving kindness to her, than because she was the wife of her nephew, the only infallible mortal, in her aunt Ruth's eyes, that the world contained. He was her nephew by a double tie—her husband's only brother was his father, and his mother, aunt Ruth's youngest sister, and it was no wonder that her heart warmed to the orphan boy—her only living relative.

"Are you not well, Nellie?"

"Quite well auntie."

"You are unhappy, Nellie!"

There was no answer, but Nellie's lips quivered, and two large tears gathered beneath the heavy drooped lashes and rolled slowly down her cheeks.

"My dear child, I am surprised, grieved, to see you thus. Can you not confide in me?"

"Oh, auntie, Norman is so selfish, so unkind."

"Nellie, tell me one thing—have you quarreled?"

"Yes."

"And parted in anger?"

"Yes."

"Go to him, my child, and be reconciled. If Norman has erred, he will see his fault; if you have, it is all the more fitting that you should seek a reconciliation."

"Never!"

"Hush Nellie; I will tell you a story, a true one, about a husband and wife who parted in anger, and never spoke to each other again. It is a terrible thing to anger those who love, Nellie. This man, whom I shall call Robert was a proud man, grave and self possessed in his manner, commanding as a king should be, nobler than any king that ever lived, Nellie, and far, far handsomer. She thought him stern, but there was one who never thought him so; and though he might have been stern to others, he was all love and tenderness to her."

"His wife, aunt?"

"Yes, Nellie. He loved her with a strength and depth of affection of which few men are capable. Why he loved her with such passionate devotion, I could never see, for she was a wild, thoughtless girl, exacting and wilful; great faults they must have seemed to one as thorough self disciplined as he was. Perhaps he divined what she never knew herself till afterward, her deep love for him.

"They had been married but a few months. They had thus far been very happy, for he was oh, so tender and thoughtful toward her and she thought she had overcome her faults in her great happiness. They were not overcome, however. One morning he told her that he was going away to Vernon, and should not be back for two or three days. Vernon was the place where she had always lived, till her marriage, and her mother still resided there.

"She wished to go with him, but he told her it would be impossible. She persisted, and he refused, without giving his reasons. She grew very angry at his immovable calmness, and said bitter, cutting words, that would have maddened a man less able to control his temper. But he controlled himself.

"This exasperated her more, and she grew sarcastic and provoking, but though he grew pale with anger, he gave her not one angry word. She refused to say good-bye when he went, and thus they parted, never to meet again on earth.

"Oh aunt Ruth!" whispered Nellie, with white lips.

"After he had gone, her anger all died away, and she thought she would follow him and ask his forgiveness, for the thought of his calm, cold scorn nearly crazed her. She hastily put on her bonnet and cloak, and reached the depot just as the cars had gone. It was too late!"

Another train would leave in a hour and she waited. When she was once on her way, she grew nervous and frightened. She was afraid he would be angry with her following him, and the day's ride was a slow torture, to her. When she arrived at Vernon it was dusk, and there was a crowd gathered round the depot seemingly under some strong excitement.

A terrible fear of something, she knew not what, took possession of her as she stepped on the platform. She found out what had happened. A man on the other train, in stepping off, had, in his hurry caught his foot, and fallen on the track when the cars were in motion. Oh, Nellie! her repentance came too late!"

There was an agony in aunt Ruth's voice which flashed a sudden suspicion across Nellie's mind.

"He had heard that her mother was very ill with the small-pox, then raging in Vernon. He did not wish to pain or frighten her with the news until he had ascertained the truth of the report. This was the reason he refused to let her accompany him; this was why he could give no reason for the refusal. Tender and forbearing to the last; and she—oh, how had she repaid him!"

"And what became of her, auntie?"

"She took the disease from which his care would have guarded her, and for long weeks lay balancing between life and death. She prayed for death; but her prayers were not answered. Some portion of her former strength came back to her, but her health never. She has never left her couch since that terrible day; but in the tender care of his nephew, who is as like him in disposition as in form and feature, she has found content."

Nellie knew now whose story she had been listening to.

"No wonder she loves Norman so much," said the little wife to herself, as she wiped her tearful eyes, and stole out of the room.

"A client, sir; a lady wishes to see you," said Richards, as he put his head into the little dusty back office where Mr Weld sat leaning over a table covered with papers which were scattered about in lawyer like confusion.

"Very well, Richards."

And Mr. Weld arose, and walked into the front office, where a little furnuffled figure sat awaiting him. As he closed the door, Nellie sprang forward to meet him.

"Nellie!"

"Oh, Norman!" and she clung to him sobbing. "Forgive me! I will never speak to Mrs. May again."

"She is a bad woman, not a fit associate for my little artless wife. I knew this, else, I had not asked you to give her up. And you came all this distance in the bitter cold to see me about it. My little Nellie!"

And he kissed her fondly.

"Norman" and she clung closer, sobbing still. "I have suffered so much! Forgive me, and we will never part in anger again."

"My own darling, never!"

And they never did. Through the long and happy years of married life which followed, no word of unkindness or reproach passed the lips of either, and they often spoke of this happy termination of their first and last quarrel.

Importance of Common Schools.

Perhaps nineteen out of every twenty persons in these United States are educated in common schools alone; not one out of twenty ever enters either academy or college. This fact, in itself, tells us, at once, that as is the common schools so is the education of the American people. Yes; the education of this nation is that, and that only, which the common schools are prepared to give. How many, who read these lines, ever received more? You may have educated yourselves after you left these schools; but did not even this depend on the education which you there received?

Look at the connection of common schools with social order and prosperity. The educated man and the educated woman have other sources of enjoyment and other subjects of conversation than their neighbors' characters; but leave the mind empty, and frivolous gossiping and tea-table chat will be the amusement of their leisure hours. There is nothing we hold important or useful in society but it is connected more or less directly with our schools. We may pile all the hill-tops with magnificent architecture, but let the plain brick school house go down, and very soon all the columns and architraves and domes will tumble with it into ruin. What is the true foundation of a Republic? It is the common school. If we would have the one stand firm, we must build the other deep and sure. To neglect common schools is as bad as to destroy; nay, it is even worse: for mal-information is worse than no information—just as hunger is preferable to poisoned food.

AGES OF CELEBRATED MEN.—Hippocrates, the greatest physician the world has ever seen, died at the age of one hundred and nine, in the island of Cos, his native country. Galen, the most illustrious of his successors, reached the age of one hundred and four. The three sages of Greece, Solon, Thales and Pittacus, lived for a century. The gay Democritus outlived them by two years. Zeno wanted only two years of a century when he died, Diogenes ten years more; and Plato died at the age of ninety four, when the eagle of Jupiter is said to have borne his soul to heaven. Xenophon, the illustrious warrior and historian, lived ninety years; Polemon and Epicharmus ninety-seven; Lycurgus, eighty-five; Sophocles more than a hundred. Georgias entered his hundred and eighth year; and Asclepiades, the physician, lived a century and a half. Juvenal lived a hundred years; Pacuvius, and Varro but one year less. Carneades died at ninety; Galileo at sixty-eight; Cassini at ninety-eight, and Newton at eighty-five. In the last century, Fontenelle expired in his ninety-ninth year; Buffon in his eighty-first; Voltaire in his eighty-fourth. In the present century, Prince Talleyrand, Rogers, Goethe and Niemcewicz are remarkable instances. The Cardinal du Belloy lived nearly a century, and Marshal Moncey lately terminated a glorious career at eighty-five.

MIRRORS IN THE HOUSE.—How many a parent has found in his child the glass for his own vices! Happy, indeed, if any one be so wise as to see the reflection before it is too late for both himself and child!

A laboring man who was extremely addicted to swearing was one day at work with a yoke of oxen near his house. The oxen not working to suit him, he began to whip them severely, at the same time uttering volleys of blasphemous oaths. The oxen, breaking loose from their harness, ran away; while the man, in a passion, pursued them, and coming up with them at the house, began to whip them again and to swear as horribly as before. His little boy, who was just old enough to talk, began to prattle his profane oaths after him. No sooner did the father hear this, than his feelings were powerfully wrought upon. He paused for a moment, dropped his whip, and sat down and wept bitterly. A flood of keen reflections at once rushed upon his conscience, which produced such an effect that he found peace where forgiveness can only be had—at the footstool of Mercy.

FOR THE LADIES ONLY.—Of women's waists the distinguished Dr. Knox, professor of anatomy in the University of London, has the following passage in his work on Artistic Anatomy, a subject upon which he is one of the first living authorities, and which he considers solely from the esthetic point of view: "The contours and flexuous undulations of the torso in women are of surpassing beauty. The waist is placed where man's is not, but the reverse. In man the waist is low; in women it is high, commencing at the fifth rib and extending to the eighth or ninth. In man it commences with the ninth rib and extends to the haunches. Nothing in the anatomy of the human frame has been more mistaken than the form of the waist in women."

A duel occurred on Sunday morning, the 13th, inst., just over the border, in the famous Lundy's Lane, between Senor Ferror del Conto, editor of the El Cronista, of New York, and Senor Porto, a young and wealthy Cuban. Four shots were exchanged, and Senor Porto was shot through both legs. He was carried to the International Hotel, at Niagara Falls. A few hours after, the principals and the party of Cubans, and others were arrested, but were soon released. The two had had a newspaper discussion regarding the revolution in Cuba, and the editor had called the other a coward. Hence the duel.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR:

JOHN W. GEARY,

OF CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

FOR JUDGE SUPREME COURT:

HENRY W. WILLIAMS,

OF ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

NO PAPER NEXT WEEK.—According to the usual custom among the craft, during holidays, no paper will be issued from this office next week. Subscriptions for the new volume will be received, and job printing promptly attended to, as usual.

Gen. John W. Geary Renominated.

We place at our mast head the ticket nominated by the Union Republican State Convention which met in Philadelphia last week—a synopsis of the proceedings of which we give in to-days Globe. At no time was there any concentrated opposition to General Geary's renomination, and in the absence of any strong opposition to the Governor he was renominated on the first ballot by an almost unanimous vote. Judge Williams was nominated by a unanimous vote. That there was, and may continue to be, men in the Republican party opposed to General Geary's re-election, it would be useless to deny—but he is now the party nominee for re-election and there is but a choice between him and whoever may be nominated by the Democratic party. If the Republican party succeeds in carrying the State next fall it will be only after hard work by the influential men of the party in every district in the State. Party men must not remain ignorant of their duty.

☞The Statistical Record of the Government Bureau shows that in thirteen years, ending with 1868, over two and a half millions of Europeans emigrated to this country, the greater number coming from the British Isles—as is still the case. Great as is the German influx, it is surpassed by that of the English-speaking population, which in this year, up to the present month, amounts to over 54,000 heads, while the German only reaches 47,000. With respect to those set down as coming from England—over 20,000 in this year—it is beyond a doubt that great numbers of them are Irish, who come away from the port of Liverpool. The persistence of the Irish exodus is a very remarkable thing, considering that it proceeds from a population not much larger than that of New York State. Those people don't seem to care much for Gladstone's grand panacea.

☞The New York Tribune says that a "poor German in Albany who tried to get a place in the Post Office, but, failing of the appointment, has gone raving distracted, and been carried to an asylum. There are men who go mad while they are seeking office; others, when they fail to obtain it; still others, after they succeed in getting it. 'Tis a mad world, this political world, my masters! If all the sighs of disappointment, since General Grant came in, could be collected, they would produce a hurricane; if all the tears shed over failures could be gathered together, they would float a fleet; and if all the temptations which assail placemen could be concentrated, the result would be something that would have secured the Fall of Man without the interposition of the Devil. How happy is he born or taught, who has no office, and who does not want one!"

☞Mr. Borie resigned the Secretaryship of the Navy on Friday last, and Hon. G. M. Robeson, of Camden, New Jersey, was immediately appointed in his place. Mr. Robeson is a lawyer, and was Attorney General of the State in 1867, under Governor Ward. He is an able and sincere supporter of the Administration, and a public man not known so much for seeking office as for having office on one or two important occasions seeking him.

The resignation of Mr. Borie was not unexpected, for he never permitted himself to regard his position as other than temporary. His private business and fast failing health precluded the idea of accepting the position longer than until Grant could select a suitable person to take his place.

☞In connection with the appointment of Mr. Robeson as Secretary of the Navy, it is stated as a curious coincidence that the only position ever held in the Cabinet by a citizen of New Jersey has been that of Secretary of Navy. In 1823, Samuel L. Southard was appointed Secretary of the Navy by President Monroe, and he continued in that position during the entire administration of John Quincy Adams; in 1834, Mahlon Dickerson was appointed Secretary of the Navy by President Jackson, and he continued in the Cabinet of Mr. Van Buren for more than a year. Both were distinguished men, and added to their national reputation by their administration of the Navy Department.

WONDERFUL EXHIBIT.—The N. Y. Tribune of last Saturday, contains seventy-six (or thirty-eight double) columns of figures, embracing seventeen thousand nine hundred and nineteen names of citizens of New York city and county, paying tax on incomes which range from $1, up to $3,019,218, for the year 1868. Sixty-seven individuals pay tax on incomes of one hundred thousand dollars and over. A. T. Stewart pays a tax on $3,019,218; Wm B. Astor on $1,078,212; Jas. Gordon Bennett, of the Herald, on $186,500; Robert Bonner, of the Ledger, on $183,841 More than eighty millions are returned as the net incomes and more than four millions will be paid as income tax thereon. This is certainly a wonderful exhibit!

☞Now that our State ticket is in the field, we urge upon Republicans the necessity of organizing at once for the campaign. We will have a hard struggle in this contest, and it is our duty to organize thoroughly before the demoralized ranks of the opposition are closed up. They cannot concentrate their strength until their standard bearer has been placed in the field, and we can secure advantage over them by organizing now. Republicans, fall into line.

☞The Government have got hold of the leaders of an extensive gang of counterfeiters, whose ramifications extended through New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Indiana. We suppose they will be disposed of as soon as possible. It is something to know that they have a chance of serving out their term after conviction. There is no danger of President Grant letting them loose speedily to resume operations.

☞The Legislature of Massachusetts has just adjourned after a session of one hundred and seventy days—"the longest on record, and five days longer than the session of last year." From reports Massachusetts is cursed with as much bungling and useless legislation as the people of Pennsylvania. We have laws enough now to last us for ten years, at least, and next winter we will be again burdened with twelve or fifteen hundred pages more. When, oh, when will these things end?

☞Virginia will ratify her new Constitution, and elect Representatives in Congress, with State officers and a Legislature, on Monday next; when the President will immediately invite Mississippi and Texas to do likewise in September or October. If common sense is evinced by their people, we shall have every State self governed and restored to her proper place in the Union and its councils by next Christmas.

☞If the Juniata Sentinel should continue to speak of us as it has done for two or three weeks past we may become so popular in that county that our refusal to serve the people there will not be accepted. We do not desire to be a candidate for any office, and we hope the Sentinel will not have influence enough to force us upon the ticket.

☞The President has adopted a very patriotic course in appointing to West Point the ten cadets at large. Eight of them are the sons of officers—mostly deceased—who rendered important service during the war; one was a drummer boy, and one rendered valuable service. We cannot but commend appointments that are made on such grounds as these.

☞Those Confederate bondholders have again turned up in London,—and this time they have something to say about the adjudication of American claims. These uneasy persons might as well rest themselves—for there can be no contingency in the future in which we will ever adjudicate their claims.

☞Jeff. Davis' health is extremely delicate, and fears are entertained that he will not recover sufficiently to return to this country. He is in Paris, and a dispatch from that place to Mr. Howell, at Montreal, Canada, on the 12th inst., stated that his situation was extremely precarious.

☞A couple of weeks ago a wren built her nest in the draw-head of one of the cars in the morning passenger train east from Reading to Allentown. The draw-head is the projecting part of the car to which the coupling is keyed fast. The car remains over night at the East Pennsylvania Railroad shops, above the new depot, and makes daily trips to Allentown. Having completed her nest in this singular place, the bird laid the first egg in it a few days ago, when the car inspector ruthlessly removed, leaving the nest, however, undisturbed. On Tuesday night the wren, nothing discouraged, laid another egg in the nest. She remains upon the nest until the car is about to be coupled to the train in the morning, when she flies up to the roof and looks down to see what is going on. During the day the nest makes a circuit of seventy-two miles travel, but regularly every evening the little bird knows where to find it again, and sits in it over night. The railroad employees are somewhat puzzled to know how she is going to hatch. When this event arrives she should certainly have a free pass, good until the brood is ready to be fledged. We have never heard of a more curious bird fancy than the above. We fear the little wren will find hatching by rail impracticable.—Reading Times.

☞Shocks of an earthquake were experienced at Seattle, Olympia, and Steelacoom, Washington Territory, on the 20th, 21st, and 22d of June.

Union Republican State Convention.

The delegates to the Union Republican State Nominating Convention met at Concert Hall at half-past ten o'clock on Wednesday morning, and was called to order by Hon. Galusha A. Grow, Chairman of the State Central Committee.

The hall was divided near the centre with a railing. The delegates occupied chairs within the railing, and spectators were seated in the rear of it.

Mr. Grow, in calling the delegates to order, said:

Gentlemen of the Convention:—Before it is devolved upon me the duty incident to the position assigned me, allow me one word of congratulation on the auspices under which we meet.

One year ago the people of this country were entering one of the most vital political contests of their history. It was to be the last, the closing scene of the bloody drama of eight years, in which great principles were to be settled forever in the institutions of our country. In that struggle the Republicans of Pennsylvania led the forlorn hope and bore the banner of victory in October. Around that banner cluster the memories of all that we hold most dear and sacred in that decade of our history. That banner represents to-day the unity of the Republic, the perpetuity of its institutions, an enlarged, noble patriotism and a humanity as broad as the race.

The Republican party is young in years, but old in its ideas and mighty in its grand achievements. On the 30th May, 1854, Congress, under the control of the Democratic party, repealed the Missouri Compromise, and enacted what was known as the Kansas and Nebraska bill. The devotees of human bondage thought by this act to secure its perpetuity, and went forth with fire and sword to plant it in all the Territories of the Union. Fifteen years have passed away, and the sun, in its course across the continent from ocean to ocean, no longer rises on the master or sets on the slave. [Applause.

These mighty achievements allow every man beneath the flag of our country to stand up in the dignity of manhood and proclaim to the world, "I, too, am a man!" These mighty achievements are by the organization you represent. The darkness of human bondage, struggling against the enlightenment of the age, sent our sons and brothers to the battle-field to uphold the institutions of our fathers, and three hundred thousand of them sleep in the soldiers' graves. This is the sacrifice we have made, while sorrow sits by every fireside mourning the unreturned braves. This is the sacrifice the generation of to-day has made to secure the perpetuity of our institutions and the blessings of liberty bequeathed by our fathers. No thanks to the organization that you oppose to-day we have a country to love and a Union to revere. Had the destinies of the country been entrusted to them, the of flag our fathers to-day would have been dragged in the dust, torn and tattered.

Gentlemen of the Convention, you meet now to perform another important duty, not only to this party you represent, but to the great interests of the country. You are to select to day the standard-bearer for the contest that closes in October next; and this Keystone State is to engage now as then in that contest in which is heard the din and clash of ideas. For, remember, although the war of arms is no longer heard, yet the clash of ideas goes on. You battle on the same line, but though your organization comprises but a few years, and was called into existence to uphold the broad principles of liberty, your great mission to-day is to confirm and develop the great interests of the country. And during this din of battle you have realized the idea of Columbus, and our countrymen go westward to day to meet the Indias. All these associations cluster around this party, who are now yet in the foreground of the battle; and your standard-bearer, whoever he may be, is to lead the hosts of freemen—the men who have met the hosts of slavery to save the country—and who, in the political struggle of one year ago, saved the party which you represent.

The roll of delegates was then called over, and Henry Souther, Esq., of Elk county, was chosen temporary chairman. On assuming the position he said:

Gentlemen of the Convention:—I return you my sincere and heartfelt thanks in being called upon to preside over your preliminary organization. I may say that I have no speech to make upon this occasion. I congratulate myself and I congratulate the members of this Convention upon the great unanimity which appears at this opening to pervade our counsel. [Applause.] I hope, fellow-delegates, that it may continue to the end; that we may place in nomination, on this occasion, a gentleman who will carry the banner of the Republican party next October to triumphant success.

It is a proud record for any man, however humble, to belong to the Republican party. It is a party which goes down to history as no other party ever will go down to history in these United States. (Applause.) It is the party which carried on and fought to completion and to success one of the bloodiest wars that history has ever recorded. And it is for us, now, gentlemen, in the Keystone State, as it has been in times past, so to conduct ourselves that our banner shall not be lowered in the dust; but that whatever we may do, we may have the consciousness hereafter of knowing, when we look back upon our acts while acting with the great Republican party, that we have strived to do our best.

With these remarks, gentlemen, the chair is ready to entertain any motion that is in order.

The convention, at noon, took a recess until two P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention reassembled at half past two o'clock, and was called to order by the temporary chairman, Mr. Souther.

The Committee on Credentials not being prepared to present their report, other business was declared in order.

The following resolution was offered by Mr. Osterhout:

Resolved, That Hon. Galusha A. Grow, in the discharge of his duties as Chairman of the State Central Committee, and for his untiring labors in behalf of Republican ideas and principles, is entitled to the gratitude of the Republican party.

Speeches eulogistic of Mr. Grow were made by Messrs. R. M. Evans, Cessna, Osterhout and others.

The resolution was unanimously adopted with cheers.

Mr. Grow in a brief address thanked the convention for the compliment paid him.

The Committee on Permanent Organization reported Hon. James L. Graham, of Allegheny county, permanent chairman. The report was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Graham made a few remarks, returning his thanks for the unsolicited honor which the convention had conferred upon him. He said we should do everything to promote the best interests of the party. To do this it is necessary to lay aside all personal prejudices, and unite harmoniously and secure a glorious and triumphant victory.

The Commitee on Credentials then reported.

The Convention proceeded to make general nominations for Governor.

The following names were offered:

General John W. Geary, of Cumberland county; General Horace M. Porter, of Dauphin county; General Wm. Lilly, of Carbon county; General Geo. G. Meade, of Philadelphia; Hon. Thos. M. Marshall, of Alleghany county; General James S. Negley, of Allegheny county; General Harry White, of Indiana county; Hon. Geo. B. Lawrence, of Washington county.

A motion being made to make the nomination of General Geary unanimous was opposed by Mr. Lauman, of Berks county.

The names of Messrs. Marshall, Negley, Lawrence and White were withdrawn, and the convention proceeded to ballot, with the following result:

General John W. Geary,	122
General Wm. Lilly,	6
General George G. Meade,	4
General H. M. Porter,	1

General Geary, having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared the nominee of the Convention for Governor. A motion to make the nomination unanimous was opposed by Mr. Lauman. A vote was then taken with but one dissenting voice—Mr. Lauman. Subsequently the nomination was made unanimous amid the wildest enthusiasm.

Judge Henry W. Williams, of Allegheny county, was named for Judge of Supreme Court.

The nominations were closed.

Judge Williams was then declared the nominee of the Convention for Judge of the Supreme Court by acclamation. Another scene of cheering followed. A committee was then appointed to apprise him of the action of the Convention. A committee of five was also appointed by the chair to wait on Governor Geary at the Continental, and inform him of his nomination. In a few minutes the Governor appeared in the hall, escorted by the committee. He was received with great cheering.

On ascending the platform he made the following address:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention: Your committee has informed me that you have nominated me as a candidate for Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and conferred upon me the distinguished honor of being the standard-bearer of the Republican party for the approaching political contest.

For this manifestation of continued confidence and appreciation, I feel that any language I am competent to command is entirely too poor to express in appropriate terms the emotions of my heart, and no other resource is left me than frankly to return to you, and through you to my fellow-citizens whom you represent, my sincere thanks and gratitude.

The nomination of Hon. Henry W. Williams, for Judge of the Supreme Court, is exceedingly gratifying to me. His pure and unsullied character as a man, connected with a high order of talent, cultivated intellect, eminent legal attainments, and energetic industry, proclaim him the right man for that position, and induced me to place him where he now is.

The remarkable unanimity that has characterized your action in reference to Judge Williams and myself inspires me with high hopes and brilliant anticipations. It augurs with certainty a favorable and triumphant ratification by the people, and gives, "goodly promise of a glorious day in action." When I contemplate the labor, anxiety of mind, and responsibility that must necessarily be devolved upon me during the canvass for an election of such magnitude, a consciousness of the difficulties surrounding the task causes me almost instinctively to shrink from the undertaking. But I confidently look to a Higher Power and to my fellow citizens for that aid, support, and encouragement which may enable me to steer the Republican ship with safety through the breakers of the coming conflict. Satisfied that my trust is not misplaced, I unhesitatingly accept the distinguished honor that has been conferred upon me by this honorable Convention.

Three years ago a similar honor was conferred upon me, at a period when our nation was just emerging from a most terrible war, and with the dust of battle scarcely brushed from my own garments, and politically inexperienced as I was, I ardently entered upon the contest which resulted so gloriously for the Republican cause in 1866. I did not accept the nomination then in the belief that in my own person I possessed any intrinsic merit, or had rendered any services to my country which entitled me individually to receive it, but I accepted it as a compliment to my comrades in arms, and as a matter due to the three hundred and sixty-three thousand soldiers of Pennsylvania, who had rendered noble services in the field, the aggregate value of which can never be estimated, and to whom we are indebted for a home and a country. On their behalf I then warmly thanked the Convention, and I here desire to reiterate those thanks again to you. And now, after having served the greater portion of the term for which I was elected, and after every official act of mine has been fully criticised and discussed by the people and the press, when you, the chosen representatives of the people from every part of the Commonwealth, appear at the bar of public opinion and testify in my behalf, and confer upon me the plaudit, "Well done good and faithful servant," I certainly need no better, no higher, no stronger verdict. In bearing the banner you have this day confided to me, I pledge you that it shall be carried at the head of the Republican column—its movements shall always be directed to the sound of the heaviest firing; and when the conflict is over, I confidently predict the banner will be placed, as it was in 1866, in triumph upon the dome of the Capitol, without spot or blemish on its stripes, and each and every star as bright as when its first effulgence beamed on the country, and Pennsylvania will still be as true as when she signed "the sacred covenant that binds the States together in the bonds of an everlasting Union."

Should the people again place me in the Executive chair, I will continue to use my best exertions to promote every where the peace, honor and welfare of my native State, and secure all the blessing that a good government can bestow upon a free people. And it shall be my pleasure to aid the Chief Magistrate of the nation in his laudable efforts to "let us have peace," and if necessity should require it, I will aid him to preserve our national rights and national honor at all hazards and at every sacrifice. It shall be my special duty to extend all the influence I may possess to aid in procuring adequate protection for every branch of our domestic industry and productions, and to see that exact justice shall be done to the mechanic and laborer as well as to the capitalist, and, as far as possible, to make them feel that their true interests are one and inseparable.

As a candidate, it shall be my constant aim to extend, strengthen and confirm the unity and good feeling of the Republican party, and in this work I sincerely invoke the aid of every true Republican. For my own part I will not recognize divisions or factions in the party, but will from this time forth, look upon it only as united, harmonious, patriotic and enthusiastic in the development and determination of the great principles and measures of progress for which it was organized. I have no enemies in whose punishment I can take delight, and whatever has been said or done in the excitement of the movements preliminary to this Convention that was wrong and painful to me, is frankly forgiven, and, as far as possible, obliterated from my memory.

The Republican party has a proud record in the past, and a glorious future before it. It has accomplished more good in a shorter space of time than any other organization that ever existed, and we have reason to rejoice that it still lives and moves and has a being. Among its achievements is the abolishment of slavery. That scandal to humanity and opprobrium of the nation lies dead amidst its worshipers. The rights and privileges of all men are secured in their lives, their homes, their labor and their persons. All men have equal rights and equal protection at home abroad, because they are men, without reference to race or color.

In the language of Abraham Lincoln, it "cares for him who has borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphan, and seeks to achieve and cherish a lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations." Each individual is animated with love for the Union and for universal liberty. Never was a Republican found guilty of firing into the flag of his country and shooting down its brave defenders. The party has sacredly decreed the payment of the entire debt incurred to save the life of the nation. In a word, it has defeated the nation's enemies, saved the Union, and caused it to be more highly respected and admired throughout the civilized world than ever before.

Friends of the four hundred thousand heroes who died for the country, with such a glorious record how can you surrender your government into the hands of those who would have destroyed it within the last six years if they could? The Union is the ark of our safety. The Republican party has proven itself the true friend of the Union. Sustain the Republican party by victory and you will thereby sustain the Union, and suffer not unrepentant rebels and their sympathizers ever to touch the hallowed sanctuaries of either State or National Governments Then let us here "highly resolve" to preserve the former in "virtue, liberty and independence;" and to protect, defend and perpetuate the latter, let us here pledge anew "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor."

Gentlemen of the Convention, again I thank you.

The Governor retired amid great applause.

The Committee on Resolutions made their report, embodying the platform of the Republican platform of the Republican party of Pennsylvania for the campaign of 1869.

THE PLATFORM.

Resolved, That we rejoice in the glorious national victory of 1868, which has brought peace, happiness and prosperity to us as a nation.

Resolved, That we wholly approve of the principles and policy of the Administration of General Grant, and we heartily endorse every sentiment contained in his inaugural address, and especially do hereby ratify and approve the late amendment proposed by Congress to the Constitution of the United States, and known as the fifteenth amendment.

Resolved, That we have confidence that the General Administration will wisely and firmly protect the interests and dignity of the nation in respect to our just claims against Great Britain, and that we endorse the action of the Senate in rejecting the Johnson-Clarendon treaty, known as the Alabama claims.

Resolved, That we heartily sympathize with the struggling peoples of all nations in their efforts to attain universal freedom and the invaluable rights of man.

Resolved, That we confidently endorse the Administration of General John W. Geary as wise, economical and honest, and that it deserves, as it has received, the approval of the people of Pennsylvania, and we especially commend his uniform efforts to restrain the evils of special legislation.

Resolved, That in Hon. Henry W. Williams, our candidate for the Supreme Court, we present a learned, pure, and patriotic jurist, who will adorn the high position to which we purpose to elect him.

Resolved, That we reiterate and affirm our adherence to the doctrine of protection, as proclaimed in the ninth resolution of the platform adopted at the State Convention of March 7, 1866.

Resolved, That we endorse the ticket this day nominated, and pledge to it our hearty and cordial support.

Resolved, That the Chairman of this convention is hereby authorized to appoint a chairman of the State Central Committee on the joint recommendation of the candidates this day nominated, and that the State Central Committee shall consist during the coming campaign of the same number of delegates from each county as the last committee, and they shall be appointed by the Senatorial and Representative districts, except Allegheny, which shall have eight members.

The resolutions were adopted as a whole, and at a quarter past five o'clock the Convention adjourned sine die.

HON. HENRY W. WILLIAMS,

the Republican candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, is a native of Connecticut, and is about forty-seven years of age. He was educated at Yale College, which, when he had achieved distinction in the legal profession, conferred upon him the degree of "Doctor of Laws." After leaving college he removed to Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, where he became a student of law in the office of the late Chief Justice Lowrie. He was admitted to the bar in 1843, and became the partner of Judge Lowrie. The latter was subsequently appointed a Judge of the District Court of Allegheny county by the Governor, and in 1851 was elected Chief Justice of the State. At the same time his former pupil was elected to fill the position formerly occupied by him.

In 1861 Judge Williams was re-elected an Associate Law Judge of the District Court of Allegheny county, without any organized opposition. Previous to going upon the bench, he achieved an excellent reputation as a practitioner, and since his elevation to judicial positions he has more than maintained it. In June, 1867, he was nominated by the Republican State Convention at Williamsport for Associate Judge of the Supreme Court, and the fitness of the nomination was everywhere recognized. He was defeated, however, by Judge Sharswood, in the following October. In the latter part part of 1868, Judge Stroud having resigned his position on the bench of the Supreme Court, Judge Williams was appointed to fill the vacancy until January 1, 1870.

As a lawyer Judge Williams is methodical and accurate; as a Judge, fearless and upright, possessing the happy faculty of discerning at once the justice of a cause, notwithstanding the difficulties and quibbles by which it may be obscured. Since he has been on the bench of the Supreme Court he has fully proved his eminent fitness for the position, and in nominating him the Convention has given the Republican party a candidate that is in every way worthy of its support.

Although Judge Williams is modest and retiring in disposition, he is extremely sociable in his relations with the members of the bar; and he enjoys a rare popularity, where he is known, with people of all classes and all shades of political complexion. He is still in the prime of life, is blessed with good health, and is capable of sustaining the severest mental labor for many years to come.

☞Raphael Semmes writes of Texas with rhetoric and sentiment equally wonderful, as follows: "Glorious Texas! what if thou art a little too much given to the bowie knife and revolver, and what if grass widows are somewhat frequent in some of thy localities, thou art all right at heart!—Liberty burns with a pure flame on thy prairies, and the day will come when thou wilt be free. When I first knew thee thou wast a Mexican province.—You then became an independent State, and in an evil hour were beguiled into accepting the fatal embrace of the Yankees. Bide thy time! Thou art rapidly filling up with population. Thou wilt soon become an empire in thyself, and the day is not far distant when you will in earnest again strike for freedom!"

☞On the spot where Generals Grant and Pemberton arranged the terms for the surrender of Vicksburg there has been placed a ten-inch columbiad, with an appropriate inscription engraved upon it. The marble monument which was originally erected there had been seriously marred by relic seekers.

A fortnight ago, while a Mrs. Rodgers, of Phelps county, Missouri, was in the garden, with an infant fourteen months old seated near, an eagle swooped down and attempted to carry off the child, but was prevented by a dog, which came to its assistance and fought valiantly in its defence.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

ASSEMBLY.

The friends of JOHN N. SWOOPE, of Porter township, announce him as a candidate for Assembly, subject to the approval of the Union Republican County Convention. june30, '69.

DIRECTOR OF THE POOR.

We are requested to announce Mr. LEVI SMITH, of Huntingdon township, as a candidate for Director of the Poor, subject to the decision of the County Union Republican Convention. june30, '69.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of County Commissioner of Huntingdon county, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention. If elected, I will discharge the duties of the office with fidelity and to the best of my ability. I was born in Huntingdon county, and the first vote I ever polled was for William Henry Harrison, in 1840. In August 1862, when all was gloomy and dark and our country and union in danger, I volunteered my services in Co. I, 125th Regiment, not for large bounty or big pay, but for the good of my country. On the 17th September, 1862, while engaged, was wounded in the arm, rendering it almost useless. THOMAS L. HALL.

PROTHONOTARY.

The name of T. H. CREMER, of Huntingdon, will be submitted to the nominating convention of the Republican party as a candidate for said office.

Huntingdon, May 4, 1869.

I respectfully announce myself as a candidate for the office of Prothonotary of Huntingdon county, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention. R. E. THOMPSON.

Huntingdon, June 16, 1869.

REGISTER AND RECORDER.

The name of WM. H. FLENNER, of Franklin township, will be submitted to the nominating convention of the Republican party as a candidate for the office of Register and Recorder

Franklin twp., May 26

In accordance with the usage of the Republican party of this county—that of confirming upon the occupant of the above offices a renomination if desirable—I hereby announce myself as a candidate, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention; and if renominated and elected, pledge myself to a faithful discharge of the duties of the office. J. E. SMUCKER.

CELEBRATED

PERFECTED SPECTACLES AND EYE GLASSES.

The large and increasing sales of these

SUPERIOR GLASSES,

Is a sure proof of their usefulness. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz: the ease and comfort; the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES by the residents of this locality

With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

Country business men generally are beginning to find out that they can get job printing done as cheap and expeditiously at home as they can in the city. We will do work as cheap as it can be done anywhere else, at cash rates.

To the Religious Public,

There will be a meeting of the Juniata Ministerium of the Reformed Church at Huntingdon. To commence on the evening of the 4th of July (Tuesday). To conclude on the evening of the 8th, (Thursday.)

During the session Sermons and addresses will be delivered as follows:

Tuesday evening July 6th, Sermon by the Rev. J. H. Sykes, subject, The distinctive characteristic of the Christian; address by the Rev. A. C. Whitmer, subject, the Communion of Saints.

Wednesday evening, July 7th, sermon by Rev. J. W. Love, The Church of Christ the absolute condition of a true knowledge of God; address by the Rev. C. U. Hileman, subject, the ordinary mode of Christ's work thro' the Holy Ghost.

Thursday evening July 8th, sermon by the Rev. A. C. Whitmer, subject, the salvation of each man dependent on his own self-determination; address by Rev. Lucian Cort, subject, the first duty of man is to enter into covenant relation with God.

The only righteousness known to God is the righteousness which is by faith in Jesus Christ. The world can only be re-formed in so far as she becomes willing to be con-formed to Him who alone is true Man, Jesus Christ the righteous. So long as we simply stand holding the rod over man to prevent him from committing sins or crimes we only repress the evil which lurks in the hearts of the children of man.

We can indeed in this way not be looked at as being of no service to God. We are however so far only in the negative. Human life properly understood involves however a far more pleasing and sublime aspect. It means a positive self-determination in harmony with the will of God. It means doing right in the sight of God. So doing leaves no room for doing otherwise.

We cordially extend to all persons an invitation to attend this series of meetings.

Services will commence at the usual time for evening services.

S. D. STECKEL Pastor.

Laudable Move.

A Committee has been appointed by The Young Men's Christian Association of this place to ascertain the number of children in our borough and vicinity who do not go to Sabbath School, and also the number of adult professors of religion there are. It is known there are a number of children in our midst who do not derive the advantages of Sabbath School because they have not clothes "good enough," and the intention is to furnish all such with clothing and send them to the schools they desire.

A canvass has been made of the village of Smithfield, in which there are nineteen families and about forty children, the greater number of whom do not go to school on account of no convenient school-house open to them.—An effort will be made to open the public school house, however, for that purpose.

The Committee is at work, and our citizens should give them every encouragement in this laudable object.

Temperance Lecture.

Dr. Charles Jewett, who is lecturing under the auspices of the Grand Lodge of Good Templars, delivered a lecture in the Court House on Thursday evening last. The Dr. chose for his subject the use of Narcotics. He handled his topic in an able, commonsense manner, and showed that while alcohol stimulates for the time, it, like laudanum and opium, is a powerful narcotic, and like these two properties, they operate only on the law of increase. He explained how hard it was for an habitual drunkard or constant drinker, to abstain from the habit, and appealed to the young to refrain from touching. Dr. Jewett indulged in no abuse, and his audience were highly instructed and entertained by his able lecture. We were sorry to see such a small turn-out.

Terrible Accident.

A terrible accident occurred in the Lanagan ore bank, Frankstown township, last Thursday. Two miners, named Silas Geesey and Wm. Young, were in the act of "charging a hole," when a spark from the lamp of one of them accidentlly fell into a keg containing some six or seven pounds of powder and exploding it. Young, who was sitting immediately over the keg, was thrown a considerable distance by the force of the explosion and terribly burned and injured. At first it was thought he could not survive his injuries, but we are pleased to learn he is slowly recovering, though he will probably be terribly maimed and disfigured for life. Geesey who was standing immediately behind Young when the explosion occurred, fortunately escaped with a few slight burns and bruises.—Hol. Standard.

Precaution.

A son of Mr. James Kyler, residing near this borough, in company with a few other boys, on a hot day recently went into the country and assisted in loading shingles on a wagon. On returning home, while in a fatigued and perspiring condition, he went into the water to bathe, and came out having a chill. He walked home, but the chill continued, and he was compelled to go to bed when a fever set in. A week after taking the swim he died. This is a warning to boys and men not to go bathing when over-heated. It is a practice too often indulged in and many such unhappy occurrences as the above have resulted. Persons should cool off before bathing.

Sad Accident.

A sad accident befell a young man named David Corbin, son of Mr. John Corbin, on the Raystown Branch, on Friday last. He had been hoeing corn, and desiring a rest he took a seat on the fence with the handle of the hoe resting against the lower part of his abdomen. While in this position in an unguarded moment he fell, and the handle of the hoe penetrated his flesh between the thighs and entered his intestines to the depth of six inches. The unfortunate man suffered terribly, but with care taken he will recover.

Who will get the beautiful Chamber Sett of fourteen pieces, at Enterprise Headquarters? For every twenty-five cents worth purchased you can have a vote. You may never have another opportunity to make as handsome a present at no expense to yourself or receiver of the present.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—There are one or two more points to be considered in order to insure the proper spirit of enterprise in the "ancient borough."—These points may be patent to every one who has made any insight into the disposition of those who are expected to do something to build up the town. When we speak of the disposition of these individuals, we do not intend to be personal or vindictive. Our aim is more to show them the folly of a backward, selfish or jealous disposition than to indulge in a torrent of invectives against them for not doing what they should do, if they would only try. There are some traits of character that we do not like, and which have done more than anything else to retard the growth of our town, which is so admirably located for many business pursuits. The first one we notice is that selfishness or desire for self-aggrandizement that leads a man owning lands to ask a company an exorbitant price for his land. We can trace the failure of a great many projected improvements to this one cause. Agents have come to our town with a large amount of capital to back them whose first endeavor was to secure the site. They would come, of course, with the reasonable presumption that they would find land-owners with public spirit enough to grant them their land at a reasonable figure. But they were doomed to disappointment. The land-owner had an eye to making something, and if his land was worth one hundred dollars per acre, it would suddenly jump up to two hundred when the agent would ask him what he would sell it for. No bargain could be made at such a price, and the agent would leave discouraged and with no very great opinion of the public spirit of our citizens, for they would judge that all were just like that land-owner. Now, how much better would it have been for the land-owner to have done as we have noticed land owners in other towns have done, i. e., give one half of his land for nothing with the expectation of realizing triple the worth on the balance; or if not that, sell his land at a reasonable figure letting the agent or a committee put the price on his land. In this way the land-owner gains, and our citizens generally derive the benefit of an increasing business in our town.

IMPROVEMENT.

The Fourth on Broad Top.

BROAD TOP, Pa., June 25, 1869.

Messrs. Editors:—There will be a grand celebration of the anniversary of the declaration of our national independence by the I. O. of O. F. at this place on Saturday, July 3. Preparations are now going on rapidly for the accommodation and reception of strangers and visitors who are expected to be here on that day, whether they come by railroad or otherwise. Ample provisions are now made for three hundred persons to take dinner at one time, besides, farmers find ample stable room for their horses.

It is now considered beyond doubt that there will be present on that day to take part in the parade five hundred members of the I. O. O. F. The following Lodges are expected to be represented in the parade: Broad Top City Lodge, Coalmont Lodge, Saxton Lodge, Huntingdon Lodge, Hopewell Lodge, Well's Valley Lodge, Orbisonia Lodge, and Fort Littleton Lodge.

There will be speeches made by several eloquent speakers, who are of high standing in the fraternity, and the services of the Huntingdon Silver Cornet Band have been engaged. They will be present on the 3d for sure. They have our most hearty thanks for acting so clever and upright, and we promise to give them a hearty welcome and a good reception when they come. We are also to be honored by the visitation of some forty "Daughters of Rebekah," the most of whom will be from Huntingdon, and the first I believe that has as yet visited Broad Top City.

Having made all necessary preparation for the reception of visitors we extend a general invitation to all whom it may concern and who wish to celebrate our national holiday in real recreation and diversion. CARBON.

Vote Early, Vote Late, Vote Often.

You don't have to pay for a vote at Enterprise Headquarters. You get the worth of your money in what you purchase. Enterprise Headquarters stands the expense of the presents—we only want the people to name by their votes who are to receive them. The Clergyman (or Clergyman's family,) receiving the highest number of votes will receive the $25 Chamber Sett—the four families receiving the highest number of votes will receive the four sacks of flour. The contest will not be confined to Huntingdon borough—every Clergyman (or Clergyman's family) in the county can be voted for. The voting of flour will also be to any family in the county.—You need not pay your taxes or be of any particular party to entitle you to a vote. Free Suffrage—all are equal at our election. Go to the polls—vote early, vote late—and vote as often as you please.

☞ A distinguished Methodist Minister and prominent Temperance Lecturer once remarked that go where he would, from one end of the country to the other, he hardly ever failed to find Plantation Bitters, and while he condemned the practice of using these Bitters too freely he could not conscientiously say that he would discard them from the side-board, for he had himself experienced beneficial results from their use, and that, from a long and close observation, he was convinced that when used moderately, and as a medicine exclusively, they were all that was recommended. At the same time he warned his hearers not to pull the cork too often, for they were far too pleasant a tonic to trifle with.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price. tf

☞ There is a good deal of complaint up the Little Juniata against ore washing, which not only renders the stream unfit for general use but also destroys fish. At Pennsylvania Furnace the muddy water is run into a basin or reservoir, and thus preserves Spruce Creek from defilement. All other ore washers ought to be compelled to do the same.

BE CAREFUL WHAT MEDICINES YOU TAKE.

WHEN you are exhausted by over work of head or hand, and feel the need of something invigorating, don't drink whiskey nor any intoxicating thing, whether under the name of Bitters or otherwise. Such articles give just as much strength to your weary body and mind as the whip gives to the jaded horse, and no more. Alcoholic stimulants are injurious to Nerve-health, and are ALWAYS followed by DEPRESSING REACTION.

Dodd's Nervine & Invigorator

Is a TONIC and GENTLE STIMULANT which is NOT attended by REACTION. What it gains for you it maintains. When it refreshes body or mind, it refreshes with natural strength that comes to stay. We are not recommending teetotalism in the interest of any faction; but long and extended observation teaches us that he who resorts to the bottle for rest or recuperation, will find, as he keeps at it, that he is kindling a fire in his bones which will consume like the flames of perdition. Turn from it. Take a tonic that will refresh and not destroy. Dodd's Nervine is for sale by all Druggists. Price One Dollar. See book of Certificates that accompanies each bottle. 4w

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

HAIR DRESSING,

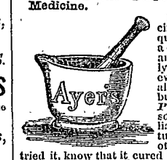
Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For all the purposes of a Laxative Medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaints and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR, And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances. This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headach.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath, should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them.
